Presentational Speaking Assessment

Proficiency level: Intermediate-mid

Scenario: You are taking a geography course while studying abroad in Spain during your junior year. In the class, you are currently studying Latin America, and your teacher has asked that each student select a different country in the area, do research on its climate and geography, and then, present their findings to the class. You have been given strict instructions that the presentation must be engaging. Your instructor has encouraged you to not use any notes while presenting! You must go online as soon as possible to sign up for the country you want to investigate.
