Where I’m From

A Unit on Identity

From Tommy Buteau and Dionne Douglas, via Edutopia
George Ella Lyon (1949 - ) is the author of award-winning children’s books, including Catalpa, a book of poetry that won the Appalachian Book of the Year award, and the novel With a Hammer for My Heart.

Lyon is often asked about her unusual first name. On her website, she explains that she was named after her uncle George and her aunt Ella.
Anaphora

Notice the writer’s use of anaphora—the repetition of a word or phrase at the beginning of a line. Lyon repeats “I am from” (or “I’m from”) in each stanza. This repetition creates a pattern that emphasizes her thematic idea—her origins and history. Each use of the phrase “I am from” reveals something about her identity.

I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: ‘We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal.’

Where I’m From

by George Ella Lyon

I am from clothes-pins
from Clorox and carbon-tetrachloride.
I am from the dirt under the back porch.
(Black, glistening,
it tasted like beets.)
I am from the forsythia bush,
the Dutch Elm whose long gone limbs I remember as if they were my own.
I’m from fudge and eyeglasses,
from Imogene and Alafair.
I’m from the know-it-alls
and the pass-it-ons,
from Perk up! and Pipe down!
I’m from He restoreth my soul 15
with a cottonball lamb and ten verses I can say myself.

I’m from Artemus and Billie’s Branch, fried corn and strong coffee. From the finger my grandfather lost to the auger, the eye my father shut to keep his sight. Under my bed was a dress box spilling old pictures, a sift of lost faces to drift beneath my dreams. I am from those moments—snapped before I budded—leaf-fall from the family tree.

Thoughts on the Poem

This is not about a specific location. It is a mixture of images that she remembers as important from her childhood.

It is interesting to see the structure organization as well (Self, Others, Reflective Stanzas). It moves from I am from to I’m from, to From, to nothing.
